Spring 2019

It is because of people just like you that Hospice services are available free

Many people do not realise that Hospice Waikato's services are not fully funded by the government and that it is people living in our community; donors, volunteers and supporters, that keep our free service available.

It's perhaps too easy to brush thoughts of hospice care aside as being "not for me - or something for old people."

The truth is that Hospice Waikato's Rainbow Place currently has over 40 children in its care and Hospice Waikato will look after around 1400 people in a typical year. One in three people who die in the Waikato will get some form of care from hospice. Much of that care will take place in the patient's own home and will be paid for by the generosity of individuals, fundraising events and hospice shops.

The number of people who die under the care of hospice is increasing, and that is putting the organisation under financial pressure, with end-of-life medical issues becoming more complex and expensive as the population ages.

The cost of providing hospice services is rising steadily, and Hospice NZ has been discussing a new funding model with the Ministry of Health. "We are relying on a funding boost in the 2020 Budget, so we can continue to provide our important services," says Hospice Waikato's CEO, Craig Tamblyn.

However, Craig also believes that community funding and the use of volunteers will remain an integral part of hospice. Hospice Waikato currently gets around 70% of its funding from the Waikato District Health Board, leaving an annual shortfall which sees the organisation needing to raise over $4.7m in the coming year.

"This is really challenging and becoming more and more difficult, especially given the Waikato has more registered charities than any other region and we are all competing for the same charity dollar. We are so very grateful that we live in a community that supports Hospice Waikato so generously," Craig says.

In addition to financial support from our community, our hospice service would not be possible if it weren't for the generosity of Hospice Waikato's over 650 volunteers. Volunteers who give their time to the organisation week after week, doing everything from manning reception, gardening, transporting patients and helping in hospice shops.

Facts at a glance

It cost just under $11.5m to run Hospice Waikato in the last financial year. Waikato DHB provided over $6.6m and just over $4.7m came from fundraising, and from hospice shops.

In the last financial year, 1244 new referrals throughout the Waikato region were made to Hospice Waikato in the last 12 months.

7468 patient visits, in their home or residential care facility, were made by the community nursing team.

The average length a patient remains in our programme is 109 days.

2441 days of specialist palliative care were provided to adults in Hospice Waikato's Inpatient Unit last year. A further 221 days were provided to children.

It is becoming increasingly clear that most people want to die in their own homes. Hospice Waikato helps to make this possible.

From Craig...

It has been a privilege to have led Hospice Waikato through another year.

I'd like to take this opportunity to acknowledge and thank all the people whose commitment to our vision of 'Living Every Moment' has enabled our organisation to deliver quality palliative care within our local communities.

Our role to support patients through their journey has grown in demand as we see referral numbers increase, as the population of the Waikato continues to grow. We strive to find new ways to make wishes come true and we are so thankful to the many people and organisations / charities who partner with us to fund and deliver these wishes.

Our volunteer team of 650 continues to play a critical role in supporting our clinical staff and services through their work with our patients and their families/ whānau. I'd like to acknowledge each one of them. I would like to also take this opportunity to acknowledge those volunteers that have died during the year and we remember all the hours and services that they have provided to Hospice Waikato.

Our retail team has yet again been the backbone to the huge growth in our shops and our ability to play our part in sustainability through up-cycling. Our shops provide an important service, not only to Hospice Waikato, but to communities throughout the Waikato. The pride our retail staff and volunteers have in the work they do is apparent every time you walk into one of our shops.

To all our staff, the leadership team, volunteers, donors and supporters - thank you for what you have contributed to this amazing organisation. Thank you for helping to make a difference in our community.

Please have a safe and happy Christmas and holiday period.

Celebrating Sustainability

The inaugural Recreate event invited entrants to celebrate fashion, creativity and sustainability using items and clothing sourced from Hospice shops.

Recreate launched on 25th August at Clarence Street Theatre. The event saw over 85 secondary school entrants parade their wonderful creations in an exciting celebration of sustainability and creativity, while also supporting a great cause - Hospice Waikato.

The event promoted the benefits of up-cycling, reducing waste in landfill. The colourful and vibrant show demonstrated that, with a bit of thought and creative energy, high-end fashion can be made from upcycled materials.

Entrants predominantly used pre-worn clothing, accessories and items which had been sourced from a Waikato HospiceShop to create their entry.

Designers were encouraged to design with creativity, sustainability and by reducing waste.

Our special thanks to our sponsors - ZM, Clarence St Theatre, House of Travel Waikato and ACLX.

House of Travel representative Michelle Taylor with overall winner, Tylah Tremayne.

Looking for a gift that keeps on giving?

The 2019 Hospice bauble from Farmers does just that.

The inspiration for this design is a ngaru, which is Maori for wave. It represents the journey of life-multiple waves moving together as whānau. Christmas is a time to come together, to eat good food, to laugh, sing, relax, and recharge. It's also a time to reflect on whānau who are no longer with us and to celebrate with those who are.
